

GENERAL

All bridges carrying Railway Trains are basically designed according to the American Railway Engineering Association (AREA) design specifications. However, individual Railway Companies have special requirements that we have agreed to recognize. The special requirements for each railroad should take precedence over AREA specifications.

Philip C Warriner

Guy D. Mancarti

JS/jgf

Supersedes Memo to Designers 17-100 dated March 1980